Province to begin liming experiments

The provincial government has announced a five year experimental program to determine the effectiveness of liming in controlling the problem of acidic precipitation on lakes and rivers in Ontario. The program was announced last week by the Ministry of Environment and the Ministry of Natural Resources.

While no total amount was given, the province indicated that $720,000 had been set aside for the first year of the five year study.

Under the program government scientists will select a number of lakes in the Haliburton-Muskoka and Sudbury regions which have been affected by acid rain. In controlled experiments, the scientists will add a neutralizing agent to the lakes in an effort to protect them against the impact of acid rain. The scientists will be watching both plant and fish life in the lakes to determine if the addition of the neutralizer causes any negative effects.

"While the chemistry of the 'liming' process seems simple in theory," Environment Minister Keith Norton is quoted as saying, "lake neutralization is more complex in practice since it entails dealing simultaneously with all elements of life in the sensitive aquatic ecosystem."

One of the main thrusts of the program in this area will be to maintain viable fish stocks in lakes which have come under stress from acid rain. If the experiments prove successful, the ministries hope to be able to apply it elsewhere in the region to help maintain the aquatic life in lakes considered valuable.

The experiments will test a number of methods of liming, including the addition of calcium carbonate to the water. Norton pointed out, "it is not a matter of dumping tons of slaked lime or limestone into the lakes as some think." He said that consideration must be given to the impact the addition of these agents will have on aquatic life.

Long distances

Acid rain is a general term used to describe rain or snow which contains heightened acid levels. The increased acidity is the result of sulphur and nitrogen emission from industrial processes in which fossil fuels are used. The sulphur and nitrogen is emitted into the atmosphere where they mix with water vapour and oxygen to form the acid.

These emissions are often carried far from the point of origin before they fall to earth. In the case of southern Ontario, a great deal of the acid rain originates in the United States and is carried here by prevailing weather patterns.

The rain or snow with heightened acidity gradually changes the acid level of the lakes and rivers into which it falls or is carried. Certain species of fish and plants are unable to tolerate these changes and, if the acid level becomes too high, a lake eventually 'dies' with only simple life forms surviving.

Acid rain also has an impact on terrestrial plants but that area has not been studied as closely as the effect on lakes. However, it is believed that acidic rain seeping through the soil is responsible for freeing some heavy metal compounds at a faster rate than normal. These metals such as mercury and lead could find their way into lakes where they may be absorbed by the aquatic life.

The Ministry of the Environment has been assessing the impact of acid rain in Haliburton County for nearly two years. A major acid rain research base is located near Dorset.

Lakes not chosen

While the lakes to be tested with liming have yet to be chosen, the announcement last week stated, "a number are being studied for suitability in terms of evidence of damage, access and important ecological values."

Aware of the current interest among lake associations in the acid rain problem and that liming may be a potential solution, Environment Minister Keith Norton has asked such groups to refrain from attempting to undertake any program of their own to neutralize a lake. He pointed out that lake ecology is complicated and well-meaning but uncontrolled efforts could do more harm than good. Information on acid rain and the efforts being made to curtail it is available from the Ministry of the Environment or the Ministry of Natural Resources.

Pressure continues

Norton emphasized that the provincial government is still placing top priority on abatement as the first line of defence against acid rain. He said the government is continuing to pursue the air quality agreement on transboundary pollution with the Police have busy weekend - charges laid

A Toronto woman faces an impaired driving charge after her 1974 Hornet ran off the road into a ditch early Sunday morning.

Deanna L. Cummings, 19, was driving near Miners Bay on Highway 35 at the time. The accident damaged the car's undercarriage. Police estimate that repairs will cost $1000.

Constable Barry Connelly investigated.

Four injured

Four people received minor injuries in an accident last Thursday afternoon when the car in which they were riding, went out of control and struck a tree.

Nineteen year old Bruce Houston of Downsview was driving a rented 1981 Datsun on Hawk Lake Road.

Houston and passengers, 14 year old Michele Phillips, of Downsview, Leslie Houston, 22, of Toronto and Mark Tooze, 19, of Toronto, were all taken to Minden hospital by ambulance but were later released.

The investigating officer was Constable Jim Solway.

Into the ditch

Four thousand dollars damage was done to a 1977 Oldsmobile when the driver lost control and drove into the ditch last Wednesday afternoon.

Forty-one year old Christine Huber, of Willowdale, lost control of the vehicle on County Road 7 in Guilford Township.

She and passenger, Evelyn Huber, 14, received minor injuries.

Constable Barry Connelly investigated.

A 1980 Plymouth skidded across the road and hit a number of rails causing $600 damage.

Early Wednesday morning, (July 29) Patricia Jane Smith, 29, of Toronto, was driving on County Road 8 when she lost control of her car.

The incident was investigated by Constable Terry Brown.

Roll-over

A Toronto woman swerved

her car to miss a dog on the road and lost control of the vehicle which then rolled over into the ditch.

Twenty-eight year old Tanya Isabell Lewis was driving on Highway 519 early last Wednesday morning when the mishap occurred.

Damage to the 1974 Dodge was $1500.

Constable Terry Brown investigated.

Serious injury

Two girls were seriously injured in an accident when a car hit a bridge at South Bay, near Haliburton Lake Saturday night.

Sixteen year old Donna

Hannon, from Toronto and Barbara Norris, 18, of Weston, were taken to Haliburton Red Cross Hospital with serious facial injuries.

POLICE have not yet established who was driving the rented 1981 Oldsmobile.

Damage was estimated at $1200. Investigation was by Constable Wim Magee.

Mike Vuksic clowns it up as he marches along the route during the Rotary Carnival parade Wednesday evening. The parade was the start of the annual event which saw record crowds along the route and attending the arena activities. For more pictures on the two days of fun, turn to page fifteen.

The Setting

For many people its like a second home. Everyone finds it a friendly place for a cup of coffee and chat or a full course meal.

The Brown Owl Restaurant on Highway 35 and South Water Street is the place. While it has become most widely known as a convivial setting for that morning or afternoon coffee break - one need only notice the full parking lot each day for proof - it is also a popular spot for tasty meals, prepared quickly and efficiently.

You'll find good hearty meals at the Brown Owl. Daily specials mean savings for the person who eats out on a regular basis. They even feature a variation on the humble hamburger, the Brown Owl Burger. Try it - you'll like it!

The Brown Owl opens early each day (7 a.m.) and is ready to go with traditional breakfast fare or that second cup of coffee. The restaurant closes at 8 p.m., but stays open to 11 p.m. Friday evenings.

Pat and Leroy Lichty always have a friendly welcome for their customers - visit them soon.

Plan draws mixed reaction

The Haliburton County Anti-Pollution Group has mixed feelings about the recent provincial announcement of a lake neutralization experimental program. That is the reaction from one spokesman for the organization, Mike Collins.

Collins said Tuesday that he was pleased the Ontario government was committed to spending $720,000 on the program in the first year. "When they first announced they would go ahead with an experimental program," he commented, "there was talk of spending $250,000. This new figure is a more realistic amount."

However, the advocate of winter lake liming stated that they heavy concentration by the government or studying the effects of liming is unnecessary. He said that much of the background on the impact of liming has already been compiled by scientists in Norway and Sweden. "Our scientists appear not to trust the findings of their counterparts in other countries," Collins commented.

He suggested the government should use the large portion of the money earmarked for research purposes to neutralize as many lakes as possible. "The studies should be carried out on a few lakes and the program could be spread over a larger number of lakes," he commented. Collins said that time was running out for Ontario lakes and the government agencies should not be wasting five years in a study that will yield results which are already available to them through European sources.

Collins said he was unaware of the exact details of the program because any information which the Ministry of Environment would be sending to him would be held up by the postal strike.

"We should have been carrying out experiments like this 10 or 15 years ago," Collins commented. "If they wait any longer, it will be very expensive," Collins said. "It is much more costly to reclaim a lake which has already 'died' than to maintain the acid balance in lakes that are only partly under stress."

Collins said he would like to see the provincial and federal authorities work together to develop a plan to protect the acid stressed lakes in the province.

The spokesman said he planned to meet with MOE officials in Toronto soon to discuss the neutralization program.

United States. "The current research in no way detracts from Ontario's over-all objective to effect a significant reduction of current levels of acid rain causing emissions of sulphur and nitrogen oxides across North America," he stated.

The minister also pointed out that should a useable technique for lake neutralization emerge from the five-year experiments, it would likely involve a very costly program. The process he points out, would be on-going repetitive and costly. Even then the program would more than likely only be 'buying time' until proper abatement procedures could be instituted.

The experimental project is expected to run until 1986 when the results of the efforts will be evaluated by the two ministries involved.

A positive approach

It is both encouraging and heartening to hear that the Ministry of Environment and the Ministry of Natural Resources have agreed to undertake an experimental liming program on lakes in Haliburton and Muskoka. The program, announced last week by ministry officials, will stretch over a five year period and involve the expenditure of $720,000 in the first year.

Liming is a broad term referring to the neutralization of acid build-up in water bodies by the addition of limestone or its derivatives. The suggestion that a program of liming may be one solution to the problem now facing this part of Ontario has been put forward on a number of occasions by the Haliburton County Anti-Pollution Committee. The suggestion was first ignored by officials, then scoffed at as being too simplistic and now, it appears accepted as at least one avenue worth exploring in detail.

Everyone who is concerned about acid rain is aware that the ultimate solution lies in abatement at the source. Most are also aware that simply adding a neutralizing agent to the lakes imperiled by acid rain will not restore them to their 'natural' state. The addition of lime might indeed have undesirable side effects that could make the cure worse than the problem.

However, as proponents of liming have pointed out in the past, the value of the process will remain an unknown until it can be tested. Methods of ensuring maximum returns for the effort expended will also have to be clarified as well the potential hazards liming may pose for the environment.

To some it may appear that the government is playing a form of Russian Roulette with the lakes which will be tested. Provincial officials admit quite candidly however, that even if strict abatement standards were in force on both sides of the border tomorrow, it would be up to ten years before any reduction in the acidity of the precipitation could be noted. In the meantime the lakes and rivers will slip deeper into an acid condition. Even when abatement procedures start to reduce the acid content of the rain and snow over Haliburton County, those water bodies which have acidified will take a long time to recover.

Liming, if it can be made to work, is only an interim step offering an opportunity to buy some time. But, if the predictions of some, that there is precious little time left, are to be believed, then liming may be the only alternative left to us. It is a safe bet that acid rain will be with us for years to come, so now is the time to muster the defence while efforts continue to stop this poison at the source.

The action of the provincial authorities in beginning this experimental program is a step in the right direction and a vindication of the long-held stand of the Haliburton County Anti-Pollution Committee, that liming is a serious option.

Prices as competitive here - survey shows

A survey carried out this spring by a group of high school students has shown that county shoppers need not go any farther than their local grocery stores when looking for the best value. According to the study, grocery prices at at least one local store were as low as or lower than the prices offered by major Canadian grocery retailers in a number of large centres in southern Ontario.

The survey of grocery store prices was carried out by the grade 11 marketing class at HHSS under the direction of teacher Al Oakley. The study was done at the request of Bill Kulas, manager of the Easton's Red and White Foodmaster in Minden. Kulas spoke to the class on marketing prior to the spring break. He then gave the students a list of items which people in the grocery trade use to compare prices between various stores.

During the holiday, the students fanned out through southern Ontario charting prices on these items from Loblaws and Dominion stores in various communities. These figures were then compared with the prices of the same products on the shelf of the local store at the same time.

The price comparison was based on everyday prices in the various stores. Where the item was specially priced for the week of the study, it was eliminated or the regular price was used.

The outcome, comparing 25 products, showed that grocery stores in Lindsay, Oshawa, Hamilton, St. Thomas and Minden were all within a $1.50 range when the 25 items were purchased. The lowest totals came from the Oshawa Loblaws and Dominion Stores which recorded identical figures of $41.19. Next highest was the Loblaws store in Lindsay at $41.37 and then the Minden store at $41.43. The most expensive store which the students visited was the Loblaws Store in Hamilton with a total for the 25 items of $42.58.

(It should be noted that the students were asked to determine the prices on 45 different products. However, since all products were not available in all stores, only the 25 items for which a price was recorded in each of the ten stores was used.)

The survey showed that the local store had higher prices than the lowest offered at any of the nine other stores in 12 instances, and five of these were the highest prices recorded. On the other hand, in four instances the Minden store recorded the lowest prices of all ten stores on individual items and in nine cases had prices which were equal to the lowest price offered by the other stores. The items which could be purchased at least cost locally included Clark's beans, Campbell's tomato soup, Jello powder and 2 kg. bag of sugar. Items where the local store equalled the lowest prices included Kleenex, Libby beans, Campbell's cream of mushroom soup, Sanka coffee, Salada tea, Heinz tomato juice, Dole pineapple chunks, Dr. Ballard's dog food and Javex bleach.

The Minden store recorded the lowest prices in three dairy staple items, 2% milk, homo milk and butter.

Students taking part in the survey included Teresa Trepanier, Danny Linkert, Terry Crowe, Wendy Sicard and Cheryl Wright. They were all students of the business organization and management course at HHSS.

Stores surveyed by the students were located in Hamilton, St. Thomas, Oshawa and Lindsay.

Centre class cultivates potential prospectors

by Sue Scott

The idea of prospecting conjures up all sorts of romantic images of grizzled old men in the rugged Klondike or young men seeking their fortune during the California gold rush.

However, modern prospecting is not quite the heroic adventure most people believe and this summer the Leslie M. Frost Resources Centre, near Dorset, will give you an inkling of what it's like to be a prospector and stake your own claim.

Rick Keevil, one of the Centre's geologists and Susan Gesner, took an interested and large crowd through the stages of this fascinating practice last Wednesday afternoon.

"Prospecting isn't the business it was years ago," said Keevil. "Most of the deposits on or near the ground surface have been found, now more sophisticated equipment is needed to dig deeper."

In Canada, prospecting began with the Indians who worked silver and copper deposits long before the French and English arrived.

Canada's recorded history of prospecting dates to the 16th century. Sir Martin Frobisher, the first known prospector, led expeditions to Hudson's Bay in 1576-77 in search of gold. But all he returned to England with was what is popularly known as,

"fool's gold."

To pick a site for prospecting, Keevil said various geological scientific surveys are done to determine a suitable spot. A prospector must start in a location that has the possibility of yielding a valuable deposit.

Step two involves consulting with government maps of the area which show what the ground is made of, maps similar to those we all coloured in as children that showed different rock formations and other geological information.

Tests needed

Geiger counters, a modern-day tool, are used to measure the distance of magnetism in an area. The reading will tell the individual where to dig or pan.

In step three, Keevil says the area is looked at more closely with soil samples and other tests being taken.

He said many people do not know that tests are needed. Sediment should be examined the water surveyed and even trees should be tapped. Deposits may find their way into the tree's root system. Leaves are also tested by burning them and using the ashes in experiments.

Once the preparations have been made, a site chosen and tested, the prospector can stake his claim.

Keevil said you must obtain a prospecting licence. This can be done if you are a Canadian citizen or landed immigrant and are 18 years old or over. The licence costs $5 and can be purchased at a local mining records office or at Queen's Park in Toronto.

Claims can only be staked on Crown Land which gives the prospectors the rights to the minerals found in the area.

A claim is marked by posts, a quarter of a mile apart surrounding the area. On the post must be your name, prospecting licence number, the date and time you staked your claim, the township name and the specific location including lot number and concession.

The time a claim is staked is important, said Keevil. It's a case of first come, first served.

Keevil said posts must be started at the northern part of the claim working down from there.

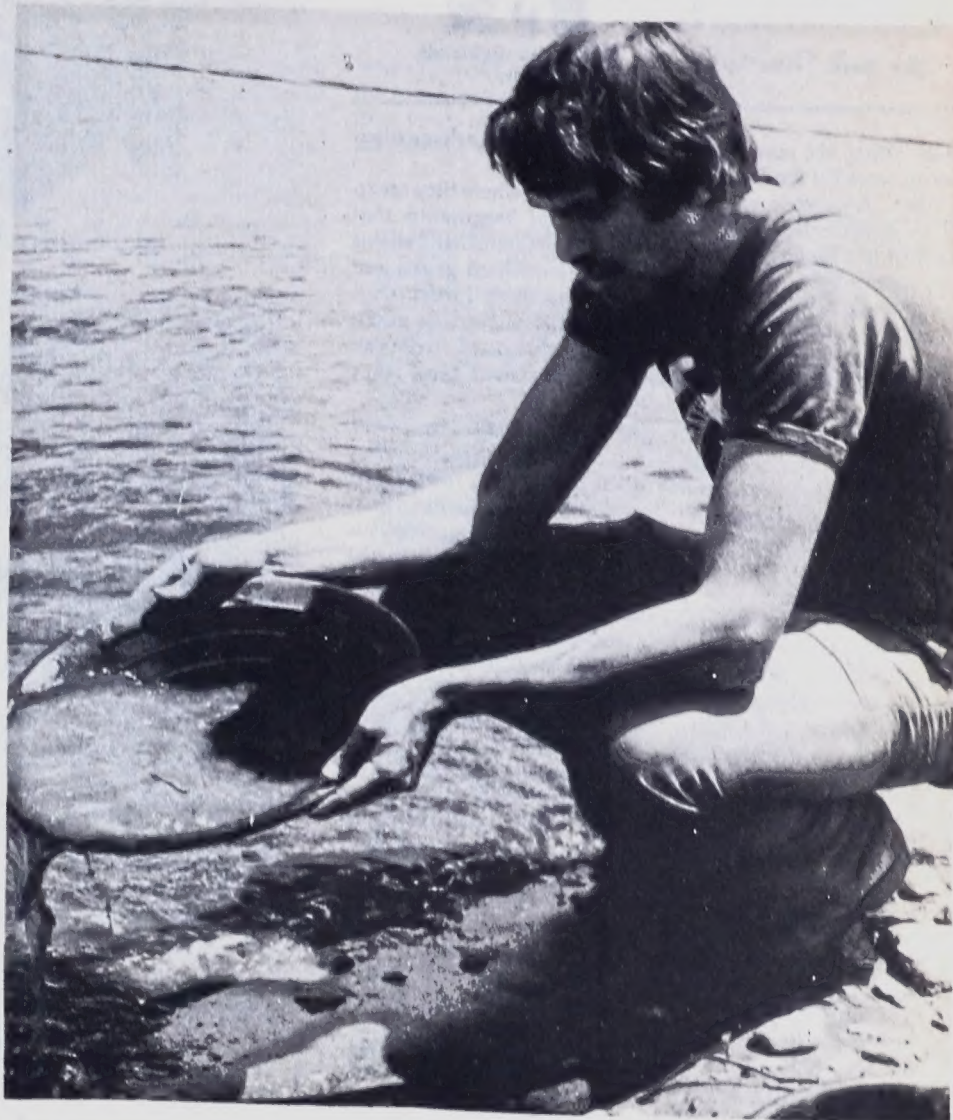

Staking a claim allows the prospector to do, what Keevil called, "trenching." This involves blasting rock ledges and using any and all equipment available.

One further requirement is that anything found on your claim must be reported to the government.

"The government keeps records on reports from prospectors," said Keevil.

Prospecting in Haliburton County and the Muskokas is slow, said Keevil.

"There is some uranium activity near Norland and some copper mining near Sifting through the rubble in search of valuable minerals, Rick Keevil shows how to pan for gold or other precious metals.

Geiger counters are used by prospectors to detect levels of magnetism in an area. Here this young man is learning how the device works.

Bancroft," he explained.

Practical demonstration

Keevil took his group to the beach at the Centre where he outlined and demonstrated how to pan for gold. The process can take quite a while, said Keevil, because the minerals have to be separated.

Once the larger pieces have been taken out, the pan is dipped in water. Keevil said a lot of water is needed.

"Chasing" the water around should allow the gold to stay on one side of the pan and the other sediments should move with the water.

The term chasing refers to the circular swirling action in the pan that separates the gold from other material picked up.

Keevil said most of the equipment needed for prospecting can be bought locally although more sophisticated machinery would be more expensive and more difficult to acquire.

Yukon gold

The first reports of gold discoveries were heard in 1869 in the Yukon and many people know of the 1896 Klondike gold rush.

While the discovery of gold has always been, and still remains, most spectacular, recent developments of oil fields in Alberta, iron, nickel and asbestos deposits in Ontario and Quebec, as well as the nationwide search for uranium during the late 1950s, have emphasized the wide range of possibilities which can challenge the modern prospector.

Keevil said the session on prospecting was the first given the public although school groups have been given the course.

He said he hopes the Centre will have another one in August and he was pleased with the large turnout for the day.

It seems that the more people find out about prospecting, the more involved they want to get. Who knows it could be the beginning of another gold rush.

FROM THE CHAMBER

By Bob Stinson

Haliburton Highlands
The Heart of the Highlands

Just about six years ago I came to work for the first time as the manager of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce. I had never been involved in this type of work before and was naturally somewhat apprehensive about where and how to start. The directors of the board who hired me assured me however that I would receive all the help I would need to get started from Marion Arntfield who was the very capable secretary and acting manager at that time. How right they were!

I had met Marion several times prior to this, but had never really realized until I began to work with her what a remarkable person she really was. She was so dedicated to seeing that every Chamber member was well served and that every visitor to the area enjoyed their stay that she felt every complaint or resignation was a personal failure. She deeply loved this country we live in and quickly turned negative comments about it into conversations of how lucky we were to be right here. I could not possibly have gotten off to any better start in this work than with her expert and patient assistance.

When she felt comfortable that the Chamber would then carry on in the traditions she had believed, she asked us to find a replacement for her so that she could retire.

In 1976 the Chamber had a plaque prepared to honour special people with honorary lifetime memberships. It was a way of saying thank you to those, who had in some way, devoted an unusual amount of personal energy toward the Chamber and its objectives.

I had the honour of presenting Marion with the first Honorary Membership in that year. It was pointed out at that time that it was not only for her fine work as a member of the staff here in recent years, but also for the many years of volunteer work she and her husband Ray had devoted prior to this, when they were operating Holiday Inn on Lake Kashagawigamog.

As lodge owners they set an example of hospitality that cannot be matched and to this day we have both guests and staff from those former days who come in and ask about them and talk of the wonderful memories they have.

Marion passed away Sunday night in her sleep after a lengthy illness which she fought with great determination and courage. We saw her last week just before she was to make her last trip back into the hospital. She was then, as always, concerned about the Chamber and the members. She never forgot us - and we shall not forget her. May she rest in peace.

It was Marion's wishes that in lieu of flowers, donations could be made in her name to the Haliburton Hospital Auxiliary.

Fire destroys stolen car

A Gooderham man left his car in a ditch on Highway 503 because the motor flooded. Three hours later the car was found near Port Perry completely burned.

Early last Tuesday morning (July 28) Michael Hunter reported he left his car on the side of the road about 2 a.m.

When he returned the next day, the car was gone. At seven that morning, south of Port Perry, the fire department had responded to a call concerning a car fire.

When they arrived on the scene, the car had burned completely and they estimate it had been burning for about three hours.

There are no suspects in the car theft. Constable Boyd Jarvis investigated.

Large crowd enjoys Metro concert

It was the winning combination of great weather and good old-fashioned toe-tapping music that made Metropolitan Carnarvon's country and western and bluegrass concert a success Sunday afternoon.

A huge and spirited crowd brought picnic lunches, lawn chairs and cool drinks to Stanhope "International" Airport to enjoy four hours of music performed by several excellent and well-known artists.

Featured musicians were the Jeff Barry Band who have just recorded an album, North to Carnarvon, which was available for sale during the afternoon, a bluegrass group from Huntsville, Hidden Grass, Ontario's 5-string banjo champion, 19 year old Ken Grooms and a special guest, Ohio State Champion Fiddle player, Ray Spangler.

The concert was officially opened by the mayor of Metro Carnarvon, Ali Hogg, who expressed her pleasure at the large turnout and hoped next year's effort can equal or surpass the 1981 edition.

Police investigate cottage break-in

A cottage on Horseshoe Lake was broken into and about $1600 worth of goods stolen.

When she arrived on Saturday, Margaret Olsen of St. Catharines reported to police the incident must have occurred sometime since last spring.

She reported bedding, clothing and other household goods were taken.

Flipped plane

A plane attempting to land on Gull Lake flipped over and eventually sank causing considerable damage.

The pilot, David C. Button, of Stouffville, was flying the Cessna 185 on Saturday afternoon and lost control during the landing.

There were no injuries to Button or his passenger and there are no other details to report at this time.

Police report attempts at raising the aircraft were to start either Sunday or Monday by the Department of Transport.

Investigation was by Constable Bill Clendenning.

Break-in

A Gooderham man reported his store broken into on Thursday morning but luckily nothing was stolen.

Ron Barr of Barr's General Store reported the incident in which there was about $30.00 damage.

The investigating officer was Constable Weldon Popp.

Gas theft

A car left a gas station without paying for the gas but police spotted the culprits and charged them with theft.

Jim Miflin, of Foster's Store, north of Carnarvon on Highway 35 reported the incident last Monday (July 27).

Edward William Armstrong, 18, of London Ontario and Kevin Sean Johnson, 16, of Ilderton, Ontario were charged with theft.

Investigation was by Constable Barry Connelly.

Post theft

A number of suspicious looking posts sticking out of a car resulted in a charge of theft for a Toronto man.

Constables Brian Dunham and Wim Magee were on patrol Sunday morning when they noticed the posts sticking out from the trunk.

Further investigation revealed the posts were part of two highway signs indicating a steep hill.

Charged with theft is 19 year old Christopher A. Martin.

Council considers road

In an attempt to relieve some of the traffic problems at Peck Street and Bobcaygeon Road, Anson, Hindon and Minden council is thinking of building a new road.

The proposal is to have a road extend from Anson Street to Bobcaygeon Road, near Wrightman Realty.

"The Peck Street corner is pretty busy," commented reeve, Lloyd Walker, in an interview today.

He said council has been thinking about discussing the possibility of the new road but "nobody knows what will happen."

Walker said council will survey the area to get an idea of the cost and the route to take. He hopes that by Fall, preliminary planning can be done.

Churches sponsor activities

This summer youngsters in the Minden area will have two opportunities to take part in special summer church programs.

The first is being offered this week by the Anglican and United Parishes. A vacation Bible school is currently operating at St. Paul's Anglican Church and will continue until Saturday when the youngsters will be included in the Fall Fair parade.

The second event begins next week and is again geared to elementary school students and will be at the Minden Gospel Church.

Billed as an adventure week, the program features "Uncle Wayne" Welch and a number of his dolls, including Andy and Freckles. The ventriloquist will entertain the youngsters with songs, games and puppet presentations and Bible stories. The adventure week will take place every evening between the hours of 7 and 8:30, beginning August 10.

For more information on activity contact the church concerned.

Records fall during Heineken Yard

The records books took a beating Thursday afternoon as, one by one, the best times in the annual Heineken Yard road race fell by significant margins.

The over-all winner of the race and the leader in the open men's division shaved ten seconds off the record set last year. Trevor Shand completed the 4.5 mile run in 22.56.

There were new records set in the open women's category and the master men's as well this year. Janet D'Arcy took close to four minutes off the old record when she completed the course in 28.17. The previous record was held by Nancy Crump at 32.29.

The master men's winner and new record holder was Robert Moore with a time of 23.36. The previous record in this class was 26.39.

In addition to the individual records set Thursday, it proved to be a red letter day for the run. Over 200 participants took part in the competition, well up over last year's 150. Many were members of Toronto running clubs while others had travelled from communities throughout Ontario to take part in the event. The contingent from local camps was also very strong.

The following are the results in various categories.

The three top finishers in the open men's category also led the race:

- open men's: Trevor Shand 22.56; Graham Milne 23.08; John Castallaro 23.25.

- open women's: Janet D'Arcy 28.17; Nancy Brown 28.42; Ina McIntosh 30.26.

- master men's: Robert Moore 23.36; Brian Drewett 25.07; Gary Baker 25.42.

- master women's: Marion Strebeg 34.59; Carol Greven 37.47; Celestine McCormick 37.48.

- junior men's: John Castallaro 23.25; Juris Ezergailis 24.20; Craig Maxfield 24.59.

- junior women's: Janet D'Arcy 28.17; Nancy Brown 28.42; Nancy Crump 31.09.

A tip o' the hat.....

The Fall Fair just doesn't "happen". There is a large and dedicated group of citizens from throughout Haliburton County who spend the better part of the year preparing for this weekend in August. They are members of the Minden Agricultural Society, sponsors of the Haliburton County Fair.

The society draws on many volunteers to help during fair days but the long hours of planning and preparation usually fall to the members of the executive and board of directors. We salute them and their helpers for a job well done.

Members of the executive include: Jerry Pillsworth president; Wayne Cox first vice-president; Dwayne Wruth second vice-president; Helen Johnson secretary-treasurer; Loretta Nesbitt past president.

Directors: Ray Welch, Mary Jane Irwin, Mervyn

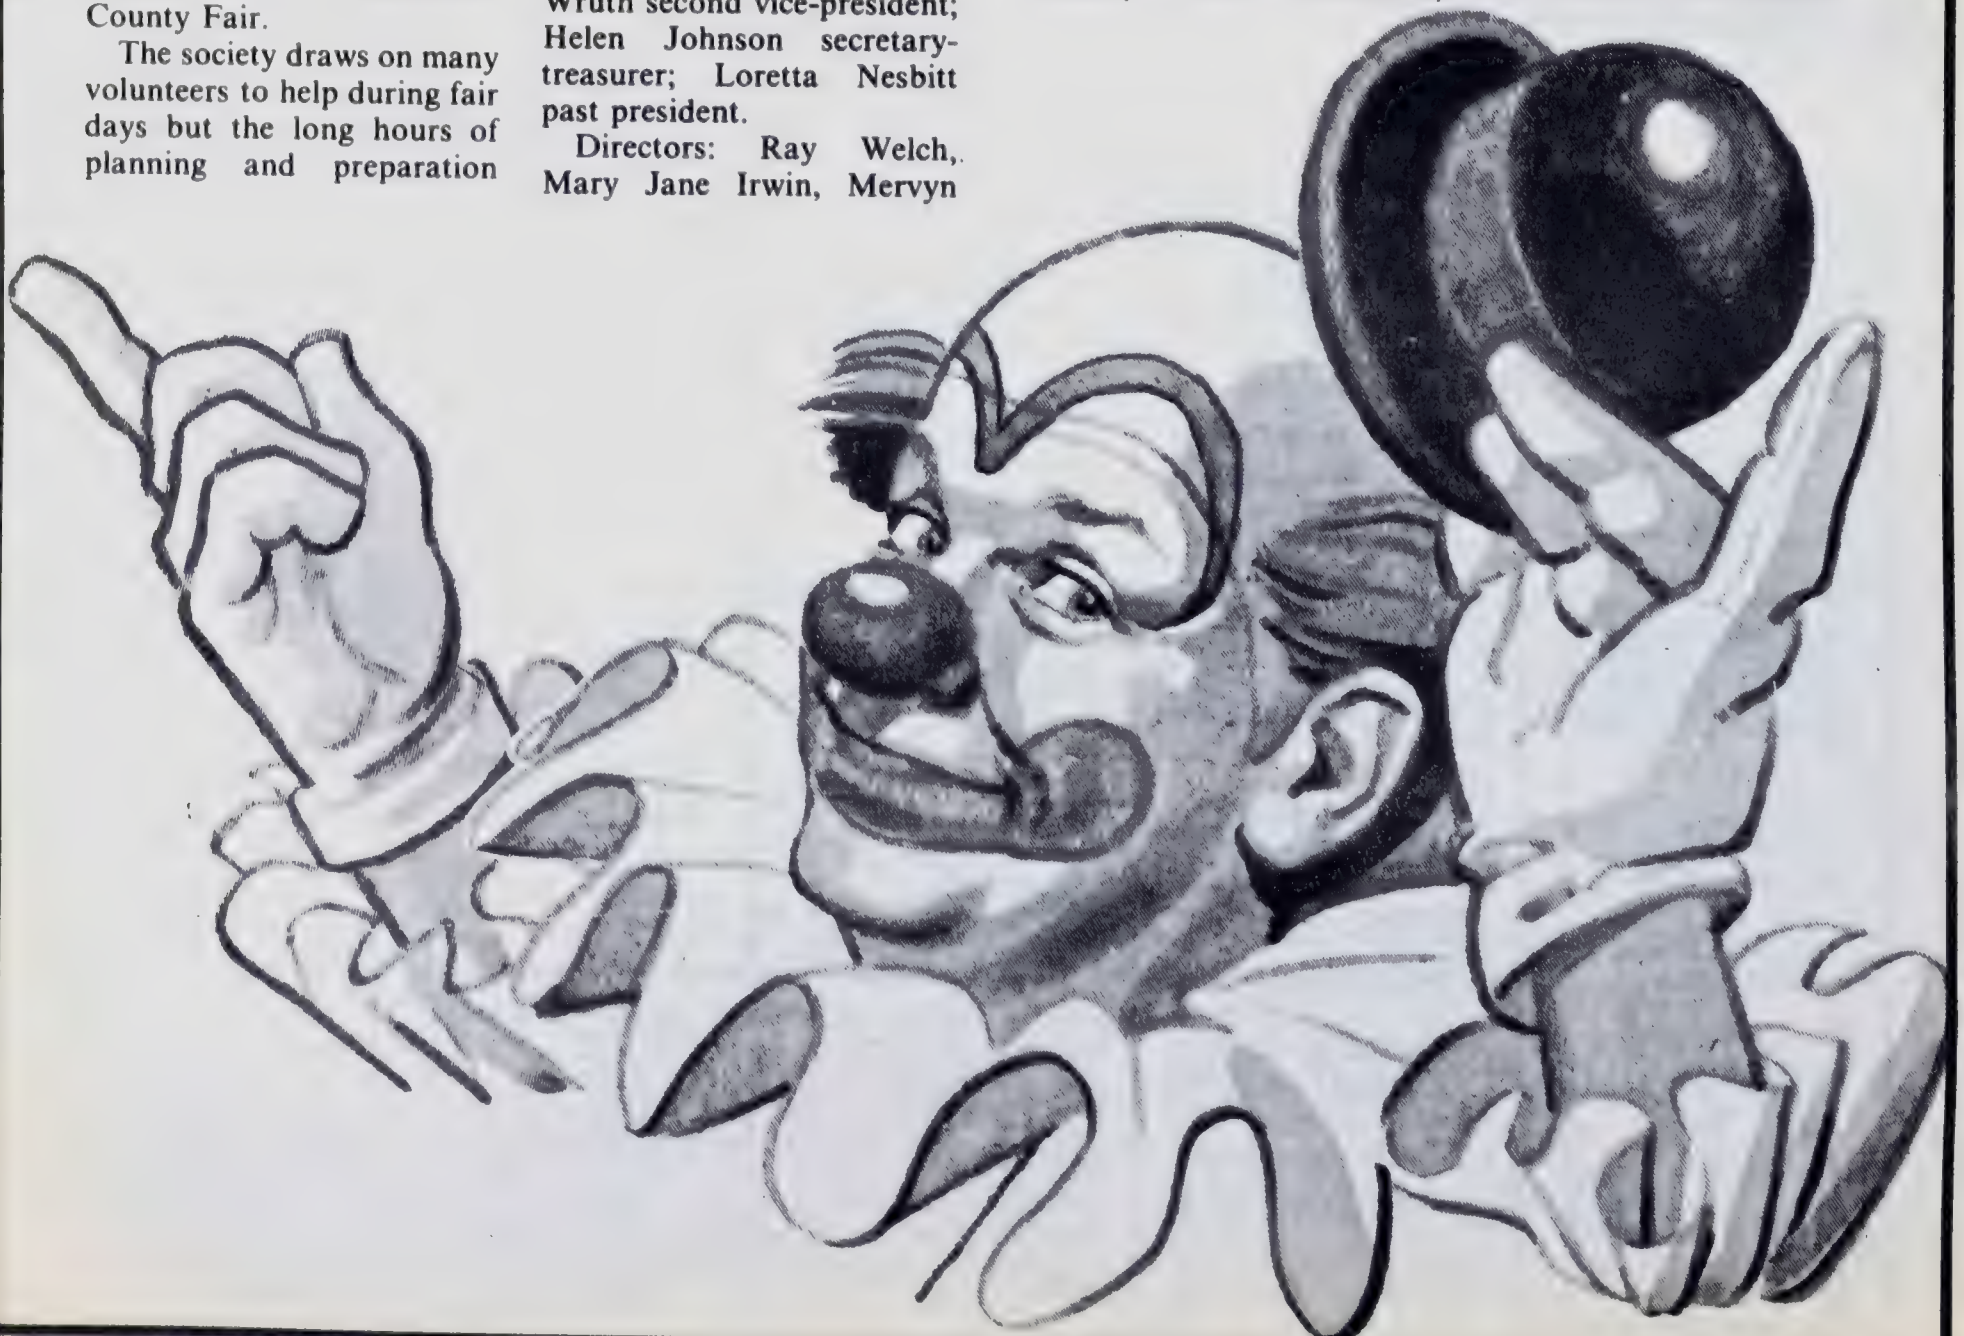

Gilbert, Beatrice Taylor, Bev Connelly, Leone Skead, Margaret Miller, Bill Duncan.

Associate Directors: Harry Cowan, Vern Gartshore,

Rhonda Francis, Irene Moore, Bea Berry, Aileen Blears, Joseph Cox, Floyd Miller, Cora Hewitt, Freda Cox, John Francis, Roy Hughes, Harvey McIntosh.

Sinc Nesbitt, Reta Hughes, Ellen Holden, McKay Brydon and Heather Harrington.

Rotary carnival a hit once again

Once again the Minden Rotary Carnival was blessed with ideal weather conditions. The weather, colourful parade and large number of activities at the arena helped to draw out a crowd that rivalled previous years.

While the final figures are not yet in, club president Ray Cox said he expects the financial return from the two evenings will be as good if not better than previous years. The money will be used to support community projects.

Paul Horton, a resident of Lutterworth, will have a pleasant surprise awaiting his return from a holiday in western Canada. His name was the one drawn from the barrel Thursday evening by Australian exchange student Helen Milne. With that simple act, she made the man $1000 richer.

Winners in the parade entries included: Grand prize - Campbell's Garden Centre; best commercial entry - Toronto Dominion Bank; spirit of the Highlands entry - Silver Birches Resort; Rotary Club special awards - Hyland Crest, The County Fair Vikings, and Highlands T.V. The parade entries were judged by Mrs. Joan Antiton of Mississauga and Marion and Irv Mandel of Caledon East.

The top wrist wrestlers Thursday evening included: in the ladies division, Monica Westaway, in the men's division, 175 lbs and under - Brian Nicholson; 175 to 200 pounds - Ben Pierson; 200 pounds and over - A. Terwillegar.

Cox - Cameron

Minden Gospel Church was the setting Saturday for the wedding of Bess Cameron and Fred Cox.

Bess is the daughter of Angus and Gloria Cameron of Norland and Fred the younger son of Albert and Helen Cox of Minden.

The bride was dressed in a traditional, empire-style, floor length gown trimmed with white lace. The maid of honour, wore a gown of blue flowered dimity and the bridesmaids wore dimity gowns patterned in yellow morning glories.

The groom and his attendants wore beige tuxedos with yellow boutonnieres.

The bride's bouquet was a colourful combination of red roses and baby's breath, while her maid of honour and bridesmaids carried white wicker baskets with daisies, morning glory and white streamers.

The Rev. E.L. Wicks, assisted by Intern John Lamshead, performed the ceremony and Mrs. Bruce Eaton from Kirkfield was the organist.

The soloist for the occasion, was Mr. Gordon Monk of Minden ably accompanied by his wife Donna on the piano.

Miss Debbie Harding of Minden was the maid of honour, Mrs. Susan Pierce, sister of the bride and Miss Bonnie Robertson, a dear friend, were the bridesmaids. Two nieces of the bride, Elizabeth and Cynthia Cameron, were the flower girls.

The best man was Mr. Rick Harding and ushers were Mr. Lanny Hughes and Mr. Gerry Negenga. Archie Cameron, brother of the bride was the master of ceremonies.

The reception and dance were held at the Minden Community Centre. Music for the dance was provided by Tommy Williamson.

Guests at the wedding came from Rochester, New York, Cazenovia, New York, Toronto, Hamilton, Oshawa and Haliburton County.

The happy couple is honeymooning at their new home which they are building themselves on the South Lake Road.

Vank - Bailey

Many relatives and friends gathered at Kinmount United Church on Saturday May 23, for the marriage of Shirley Anne Vank and Randy Bailey.

Shirley is the daughter of Shirley (of Kinmount) and James Vank of Kingsville, Ontario. Randy is the son of Mrs. Lillian Bailey of Norland and the late Fred Bailey.

Rev. Roy Vanderlip of Norland performed the ceremony. Mrs. Vanderlip was the organist.

The bride wore a white gown trimmed with chantilly lace and a flowing train with a shoulder length veil. She carried a bouquet of white and blue daisies and baby's breath.

Shirley's matron of honour was her sister, Linda Simmons, and bridesmaids were Christina Willison and Patricia Boose.

The best man at the wedding was Wayne Bailey, Randy's brother.

Cindy Lynn Vank of Kingsville, a niece of the bride, was lower girl while the bride's cousin, Travis Willison of Minden was the ring bearer.

A lovely reception was held at the Kinmount Community Centre after which the happy couple left for their honeymoon in Timmins.

Randy and Shirley plan to live at Ponderosa Pines, near Kinmount.

Out of town guests attended from California, Trenton, Cambridge, Barrie, Tillsonburg, Cookstown, St. Mary's, Fenelon Falls, Norland, Kingsville, Toronto, Minden and London, Ontario.

Sculptor seeks financial aid for Fox Statue

A number of weeks ago this newspaper featured a brief article about a former Minden resident, George Pratt, who has started sculpting a statue of Terry Fox. Pictures of the artist and his work appeared in a number of national newspapers.

Pratt, a native of the area, is now living in Vancouver where he began his project at the urging of a number of friends and with the backing of several business concerns and the blessing of the Canadian Cancer Society.

The sculptor was in Minden recently on a brief visit and reported that the project is starting to take shape. With the help of an assistant he has begun sculpting the features of Terry's face.

"We're working from a clay model," Pratt noted. "The other portions of the body have been roughed in and it is now important that we complete the face." The artist pointed out that unless the facial features resemble those of the courageous one-legged runner, the 12 foot statue will be of little value.

Using a caliper-like device, the sculptor and his assistant are able to measure various points on the life-size clay bust and transfer them to the granite statue. "It is a long process, but one that ensures the final work will have a very close resemblance to Terry," Pratt comments.

The finished statue will be placed in front of a new 60,000 seat stadium just outside Vancouver. He expects the project to be completed by September.

One of the purposes of Pratt's visit to the area was to obtain financial support for the project. "I estimate the whole thing is going to cost close to $40,000," he said. "I have received some financial support from companies and individuals on the west coast and have contacted most of the people who have purchased other sculptures I have completed. The results have been encouraging." The artist visited a number of cities in his travels to Minden, stopping in Calgary, Edmonton, Winnipeg and Toronto where he visited with various corporations. He also planned to travel to Ottawa and Montreal before returning to Vancouver to continue the work.

Pratt thought that since a number of people in the area had expressed an interest in his project that they might also be interested in contributing to the fund which has been established to support the work. While the project is not part of any effort sponsored by the Cancer Society, Pratt has a letter from an official of the organization endorsing the undertaking.

The fund has been registered as charitable with the federal government and contributions are tax deductible.

The artist expressed one concern about those who might consider assisting his efforts. "I would not like to see money, that people had planned to give to cancer research, channelled away from that need to support this effort. That is where the money is needed most," he stated.

Those wishing to make a contribution to George Pratt's effort should make the cheques payable to The Friends of George Pratt, in care of First City Trust Company, 777 Hornby Street, Vancouver, British Columbia.

Hustlers take over first place

Two wins during the past week have placed the Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers at the head of the pack in the Tri-County Baseball League. The local squad downed Bobcaygeon 4-2 Wednesday of last week to share the league lead with Lindsay Tavern and this Monday took sole possession of top spot by defeating Omeme 8-5.

The Wednesday night contest was a closely played one with Minden opening the scoring in the first inning on a single by Greg Newell and a double off the bat of Jack Snell.

Ron Yake singled in the second inning, but he failed to score when Scott Arbuthnot doubled.

In the third frame, Gene Newell and Jack Snell set up Craig Stamp with singles. Craig pounded one over the fence to give the Minden team three runs and a 4-0 edge.

Bobcaygeon attempted to battle back in the fourth inning, scoring two runs before the Hustlers tightened their defences. In the last three innings the visitors fell 1-2-3 in each frame.

Jack Snell was the winning pitcher while Joe Barbeau took the loss.

The game that moved the Hustlers into top spot was played Monday evening in Omeme. Both teams remained scoreless until the fifth inning when Minden opened with a single. Omeme responded in their half of the inning with a single.

Gene Newell added two more runs in the sixth frame with a home run but the hosts again matched the Minden effort. The seventh inning was scoreless and then the Hustlers opened with two runs in the eighth inning on a double by Neil Burk and a triple by Larry Kent.

The game was tied again however, when Omeme managed two more runs in their half of the inning.

Jack Snell led the Hustlers in a scoring spree in the ninth inning, opening with a triple. Burk singled, Kent hit another triple and was brought home by a single by Colin Newell. Omeme did not score this time and the game belonged to Minden.

Jack Snell was the winning pitcher while Scott took the loss.

Haliburton leads ladies league

Haliburton retains a slim lead in the ladies softball league as the action enters the final week of regularly scheduled play this week. They lead Carnarvon by one point and are ahead of the West Guilford entry by four points. Reviewing last week's action:

On Monday evening the Dixie Lee Homestead team played host to the West Guilford team. Golfers score aces

Two sportsmen recently fulfilled a golfer's dream on Highlands courses.

Paul O'Brien of Ingoldsby scored a hole-in-one on the eighth at Beaverbrook Golf Course. The ace came on the par 3, 130 yard number eight hole. He used a three wood for the one shot hole.

The ace was witnessed by Herb Gill, Jack O'Dell and Jerry Durant.

Ian MacDonald of Toronto was the second golfer to score a hole-in-one recently. His shot came on July 25 at the Blairhampton Golf Course.

MacDonald used a six-iron to score the ace on the course's par 3, 164 yard sixth hole. The feat was witnessed by three other golfers.

Deer season - dates announced

The deer hunting season in the Haliburton County and Muskoka regions will again be six days long according to an announcement last week from the Ministry of Natural Resources. The season will run from November 2 to 7.

The local season was announced along with a number of changes to hunting seasons in many southern Ontario areas.

The ministry also announced that applications to hunt antlerless deer will only be available to those holding valid 1981 resident's or farmer's deer hunting licences. These licences are now on sale at issuing outlets.

For a complete review of the deer hunting regulations and seasons across the province, hunters can obtain a map and details from the Minden office of the Ministry of Natural Resources, located on Highway 35.

Ideal weather aided the success of the annual Red Cross bazaar Saturday. Sponsored by the Lindsay and Minden branches, the sale was held on the front lawn of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce where even the trees were used to display some of the goods on sale. The sale netted over $1000 for the Red Cross A.I.D. program. The winner of the Afghan was Reg Hart of Lutterworth Estates, while the winner of the tea cosy was Mrs. J.E. Burton of Minden.

Monday morning several residents of Hyland Crest got on the bus and then proceeded to the dock in Haliburton where they boarded the m.s. Haliburton for a scenic tour on Head Lake, Grassy Lake and Lake Kashagawigamog. It was a beautiful sunny day and everyone thoroughly enjoyed the two hour cruise.

We got back around noon and then went to the new park in Haliburton to enjoy a delicious lunch prepared by our own kitchen staff. After lunch we went to the new Skyslider to watch the action. On the way home, we stopped at Kawartha Dairy and everyone enjoyed an ice cream cone. Mr. & Mrs. Fred Parker treated everyone to the ice cream and volunteered their help for the day. We would like to thank them for coming along and also thanks to Miss Melinda Wood, our nursing director, for taking time out from her holidays to be of assistance to us during the cruise and lunch.

Monday evening was movie time in the auditorium. Once again everyone enjoyed three very interesting films which were on loan from Haliburton Library.

Tuesday morning, Rev. John Smith of Haliburton Baptist Church held service in the chapel. Agnes Taylor played the organ for the singing of hymns.

In the afternoon, the bingo lovers gathered in the lounge for their weekly game.

Wednesday the float was prepared for the Minden Rotary Carnival. The theme this year was Western Days. Our float featured Blondie's Saloon with two life-size characters. Of course, Blondie was a very attractive saloon girl, and there was a rough-looking customer sitting at the bar. These dummies were made by the activities staff and the rest of the float was made by the maintenance staff. Special thanks to Gerry McKelvey for all his help and ideas.

Our float won a lovely trophy which is on display on the showcase at the front entrance of Hyland Crest.

Thursday afternoon the ladies of Our Lady of Fatima Catholic Church brought a delicious variety of sandwiches for the tea party. This was a special birthday party held for all those who had a birthday in July. Our guests of honour were Lillian Miller, Caroline Jones, Amelia Good, Walbert Sisson, William Avery and Jim Voiccy. These special people were presented with a lovely decorated birthday cake by the ladies and everyone joined together to sing Happy Birthday. Toos Reid and Rose Barry brought their guitars and entertained us during the tea party. We wish to thank this group for a most enjoyable afternoon.

The week's activities ended with the sing-song on Friday afternoon. Grace Coburn led the singing while Norma Barron played the piano.

Monk appointed president

Minden funeral director, Gord Monk, has been appointed president of the Bay of Quinte Funeral Service Association. The appointment was made last month after the elected president, Paul Jolliffe of Campbellford resigned due to ill-health.

Monk had been elected to the position of vice president at the group's annual meeting in June. The term will run until next June.

The Bay of Quinte association represents 102 member funeral homes stretching from Kingston to Whitby and north to Beaverton, Minden and Bancroft. The organization provides public information seminars, keeps its members informed on various changes in legislation affecting estates and acts as a liaison body between the members and the provincial and national association.

The local group meets in annual convention and, according to Monk, there is a possibility the association may select the Haliburton Highlands for their 1982 convention. The new president said that an average of 150 individuals attend the annual convention.

Gord Monk is also the chairman of the Minden Business Improvement Area board of directors.
